Crowds Expected To Attend County Fair Next Week

LISBON — Columbiana County Fair Board members will have one eye on the weather when the 117th annual county agriculture exhibit opens here Tuesday.

The gates will be open Monday but this day usually is reserved for placing final entries. Tuesday will see the actual start of the fair and will include the annual Children's Day. Over 2,500 tickets have been distributed to school children throughout the county.

J. Richard Stamp, secretary of the fair board, hopes for between 25,000 and 30,000 paid admissions during the five-day event with at least another 10,000 free customers, because children under 12 years of age are admitted without charge.

William Maple of Kensington, in his second year as president of the Agriculture Society, thinks this fair will be bigger and better than his last year's production.

Floyd Lower, county extension agent in agriculture, said fairgoers will see the largest display of 4-H work ever shown and all club booths are expected to be overflowing.

Steer Auction Wednesday

Sixty high-quality steers owned by 4-H members will be auctioned off Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the coliseum.

The only new things added for this year's affair was a new fence along the race track, north of the grandstand. Roofs of buildings were tarred.

Evening attractions in front of the grandstand this year include the county 4-H Clubs' Jamboree on Tuesday evening; big top circus review on Wednesday and Thursday evening; Doc William Family show Friday night, and a variety show on Saturday.

There will be three days of harness racing Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Approximately 64 horses are entered for the three days, with over $1,300 in purses, along with trophies again donated by the Lisbon Trot and Pace Club. They will carry the names of Harry Caton, George Rogers, H. E. Marsden and J. Howard Sinclair, race horse drivers and fair board members of earlier years.

Two classes of horse - pulling, chev hugged and kissed them both and girls bedecked them with flowers.

The latest Soviet heroes exchanged embraces with top Soviet officials, members of their families and their Russian predecessors in space, Maj. Yuri Gagarin and Lt. Col. Gherman Titov.

Nikolayev and Popovich first reported to Khrushchev, saluting him sharply and pledging that they are ready to carry out any further missions.

Then Popovich kissed and embraced his 7-year-old daughter, Natasha, took her by the hand as he and Nikolayev waved with the welcoming party to the huge crowd gathered to greet them.

Khrushchev led the astronauts and the Soviet officials on a march in front of the welcoming crowd. The Soviet premier was waving a bunch of flowers in acknowledgement of the cheers of the crowd.

Khrushchev suddenly took Natasha Popovich's hand and she relinquished her father's. The premier had to give her a little tug now and again to keep her on the right route.

The cosmonauts' plane landed just after Khrushchev had arrived in another plane from Sochi. The Soviet premier was untanned and apparently rested for his holiday in the Crimea on the Black Sea.

The cosmonauts' arrival was televised and transmitted live to television screens in Western Europe.

The astronauts flew in from an undesignated town on the Volga where they had rested and undergone examinations of the effects of their record orbital flights that kept Nikolayev in space four days and Popovich three days.

As thousands gathered at the airport with Khrushchev to greet them, the big plane carrying them swooped low over the festooned city and then headed for a landing. At the airport two huge pictures of the astronauts overlooked the field and hundreds of news-

Kennedy Opens Water Project

Continues Western Tour In California

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — President Kennedy touches off 17,000 feet of dynamite charges today to break a big chunk of ground for a $511 million water project, on a trip from which the non-political tag quickly was stripped.

Here in the home state of Richard M. Nixon, Kennedy would like to do some dynamiting of the former vice president's aspirations to become governor of California.

The real activity along that line, as well as in behalf of Democrats running for Congress, will come later in the campaign. Kennedy aides are talking about an outright political trip to the West early in October.

But Kennedy already was teaming up to some extent with Nixon's current political foe, Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, the Democrat who is governor now and wants to remain governor.

The two had a conference planned at Yosemite Park today before taking off for Los Banos and the ground-breaking ceremony for the San Luis project.

The project will supply water to hundreds of thousands of acres of central California as well as to the Los Angeles-San Diego area.

Brown attended a Democratic powwow at Fresno Friday night and spent the night there.

Kennedy visited Yosemite for the first time and spent the night there, in one of the most magnificent valleys on earth.

He dined in his suite at the Ahwahnee Hotel, then watched the famed firefall from a balcony. Red embers of red fir bark cascaded from Glacier Point, 3,500 feet above the valley, down the face of a 1,000-foot cliff in a spectacle that has a 60-year tradition.

To accommodate the President, the firefall was delayed 30 minutes, and to impress him, the quantity of glowing coals was doubled or tripled.

The fireball capped a day that

Cosmos 8 Put Into Orbit by Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched a satellite, Cosmos 8, into orbit today, Tass announced.

Previous Russian satellites in the Cosmos series have been unmanned. The launching announcement came as the Soviet Union prepared to welcome its space twins, Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich, in Moscow with a triumphal celebration.

When the first Cosmos satellite was launched March 16, the Russians announced they would launch a series of artificial earth satellites during 1962 to explore radiation and other hazards man will face in extended space travels.

The satellite, Tass said, carried "multichannel radio telemetric systems and radio technical devices for measuring the trajectory."

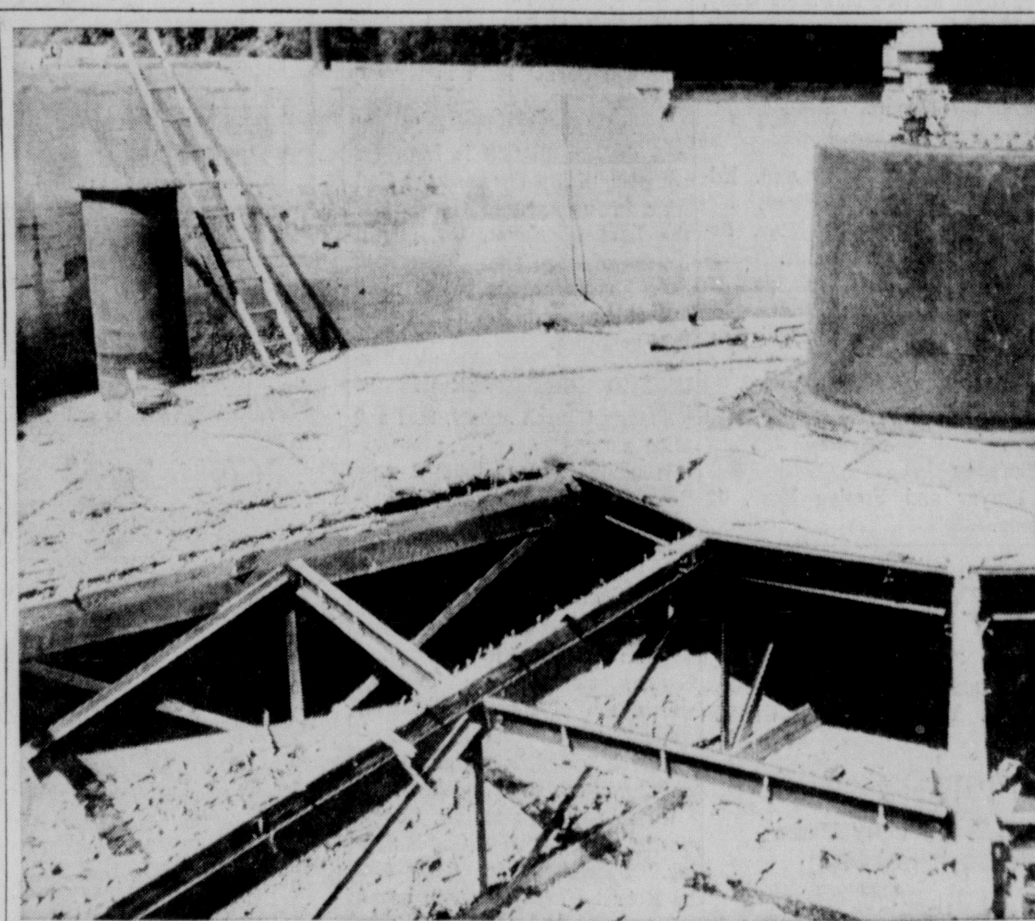

The sputnik also had aboard what the Russians call a mayak (beacon) transmitter working on frequencies of 20.00504 and 90.02268 megacycles.

The satellite circled the earth once every 92.93 minutes. The angle of inclination of the orbit to the plane of the equator was 49 degrees.

Maximum distance of the sputnik from the surface of the earth is 375.3 miles. The minimum distance is 159 miles.

REPAIRS UNDER WAY AT SEWAGE PLANT—Employees at the municipal sewage disposal plant north of town started making repairs Wednesday to the roof of this 55-foot digester, built five years ago as part of a $775,000 improvement project at the plant. Workmen were a little more than halfway through yesterday tearing off the entire roof which had rotted from moisture. The function of the digester is to convert settled sewage solids into innocuous organic matter suitable for use as fertilizer.

Trustees Approve Salem Program

Kent Center To Definitely Open

The Board of Trustees of Kent State University, meeting Friday afternoon, gave final approval for the opening of the Kent State Extension Center in Salem this fall.

Nine different academic courses will be offered at the Center which will begin Sept. 19 at the Salem Senior High building.

Registration of students, freshmen or sophomores, is scheduled Aug. 28 and 30—from 1 to 8 p.m.—at the high school. Final registration date is Sept. 10.

William Stephens, director of academic centers for Kent State University, who announced the trustees' decision, said 150 individuals had written to the college expressing an interest in the extension classes here. Final enrollment may reach 200, he said.

Stephens said the university board's approval is for a full two-year schedule for freshmen and sophomores.

A schedule of classes has been printed and will be mailed to the KSU Center office which is being opened in the high school building. An office secretary is being employed.

The Salem KSU Center will be in charge of Francis E. Hazard, who has been assistant in charge of the Kent Extension Center in Canton.

Brochures about the college program are available at the Salem Public Library, local banks and Fisher's newsstand. Further information will be obtained from Supt. Paul E. Smith's office.

The Kent Center will operate

Probers To Hear Humphrey Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — George M. Humphrey's defense of a multimillion dollar nickel deal with the government will be resumed on Capitol Hill after an indefinite cooling off period.

The wealthy 72-year-old Cleveland industrialist's hearing before Senate stockpile probers ended abruptly Friday after a shouting match between Humphrey and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

But Symington, chairman of the Senate's special stockpile investigation, promised that Humphrey would get a chance to return.

Just before entering a hospital for a hernia operation that is expected to sideline him for several weeks, Symington told a reporter that Humphrey "or any other witness will be called to testify if this is requested by counsel or any member of the subcommittee."

But before then, Symington said subcommittee investigators and auditors will re-examine Humphrey's testimony and records of the Hanna mining complex on the much disputed $98-million nickel stockpile contracts.

Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., who sharply protested Symington's refusal to let Humphrey and a squad of Hanna associates continue their testimony Friday, said in a separate interview that he would insist they be recalled later.

Chairman Symington disregarded the rights of other members of the subcommittee and citizens who had been called as witnesses," Bush said.

Humphrey, the top executive in a chain of Hanna companies until he became secretary of the Treasury in 1953, angered Symington by telling newsmen that the inquiry is politically motivated and con-evenings between 6 and 10 at the high school building, Stephens announced.

He said he envisions a successful Kent branch here and indicated that prospective students were from Salem and surrounding communities interested in college studies and credits without having to leave town to attend a far-away university.

A citizens advisory committee has been named to work with the local program to assist in its promotion and guidance.

McNamara Claims Saving U.S. $4 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, accused in some quarters of gathering in too much control, is convinced that his personal item-by-item review of the proposed military budget last year saved up to $4 billion.

Former Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said last month that McNamara passed on 500 different budget items, some involving as little as a few thousand dollars.

Stahr, who resigned to become president of the University of Indiana, cited this painstaking personal review of the fiscal 1963 budget as an example of McNamara's overreaching in personal control of the Pentagon.

Although McNamara has refrained from replying to Stahr in public, it is known he was perplexed by Stahr's criticism of his budget actions.

As the top man in the defense establishment, McNamara feels he has a responsibility to check closely on what is allowed to go into the military budget, which this year totals a staggering $48 billion.

Critics of McNamara contend military advice is shunted aside and that the secretary's top civilian aides are shaping U.S. strategy.

Turnpike Crash Victims Serious

14 of 29 Injured Are Hospitalized

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Two of the 29 persons injured in a bus-truck collision on the Ohio Turnpike in which a Japanese student was killed remained in critical condition today.

The predawn crash Friday three miles east of the Streetsboro interchange sent heavy steel rods from the truck crashing into the Greyhound bus.

Killed was Miss Yukiko Murakami, 21, of Tokyo, who had just completed a six-week seminar on American civilization at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Fourteen of the injured were hospitalized.

Miss Sachiko Kaneko, 22, of Tokyo was reported in critical condition in Suburban Community Hospital, Cleveland. She is the daughter of Kazuhiro Kaneko, a member of the Japanese Diet (parliament).

Mrs. Minnie Stephens, 74, of Mansfield was on the critical list at St. Thomas Hospital in Akron with fractures of the right leg and facial bones and chest injuries.

The Turnpike Patrol charged the bus driver, Steve Amicarelli, 42, of Youngstown with failure to keep an assured clear distance. He was ordered to appear in Municipal Court here at 2 p.m. Aug. 27.

The patrol said the bus had just pulled back into the right lane after passing a car when it hit the rear of the truck.

Amicarelli was admitted to Suburban Community Hospital with cuts of both knees and an injured left hand. Hospital attendants said a heavy steel belt buckle probably saved the bus driver's life. The buckle was bent by steel rods that hit him in the stomach.

Bill Approved By 66-11 Vote; Goes to House

Provides for Private Ownership of Global Communications

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a long countdown, the Senate has finally got the administration's communications satellite bill off the launching pad.

But it left a trail of scorched tempers that seemed certain to have an effect on other legislation in Congress' drive for adjournment.

The Senate passed the measure 66 to 11 Friday after having invoked its anti-filibuster rule for the first time in 35 years in order to get the bill through a barrier of bitter opposition.

The measure is very much like, but not identical with, a bill passed by the House on May 3 by a 354-9 vote.

If the House — now taking an informal recess until Aug. 27—accepts the Senate version, the legislation will go directly to President Kennedy for his signature.

Should the House, however, insist that a compromise be worked out, the bill would have to come back to the Senate. This would give opponents a chance to mount a new filibuster against it.

The first space-age legislation of its kind, the bill cleared the Senate Friday after proposed amendments had been rejected in wholesale lots. All 11 votes against it were cast by Democrats.

It provides for the creation of a private, government-regulated corporation to own and operate the U.S. segment of a global communications system using satellites as relay stations.

Kennedy put it on his "must" list, but a small band of Democratic senators fought the measure. They called it a gigantic giveaway of the taxpayers' investment in space research and said it would create a private monopoly dominated by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Most of these senators favored government ownership.

Passage was assured once the Senate voted 63 to 72 last Tuesday to invoke an anti-filibuster rule that limited each senator's speaking time from then on to one hour.

Opponents protested to the end that they were being "gagged." Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who was backed all the way by his Republican counterpart, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, maintained that the bill's foes had been treated fairly.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., floor manager of the bill, told the Senate that "I stake my name, my reputation, and everything I have worked for for 55 years" that the bill is not a giveaway.

Sens. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Russell B. Long, D-La., and other opponents just as insistently argued that the bill provided for a giveaway to a private monopoly that, they said, will be dominated by AT&T.

The bill provides that half of the proposed satellite corporation's stock, to be issued at no more than $100 a share, shall be for sale to the general public and half to communications companies, including AT&T.

Each of the two groups of stockholders would elect six of the corporation's 15 directors. The other three would be appointed by the President, subject to Senate confirmation.

The Federal Communications Commission would be empowered to require any communications company owning stock to sell some of its shares to other companies if this would serve the public interest.

The FCC also would be vested with broad authority over the corporation's rates, its capital structure and other aspects of its affairs.

In addition, the bill directs the President to provide for a continuous review of the corporation's activities and to supervise its relations with foreign governments.

Sues Trucking Firm In Husband's Death

LISBON — A suit for $100,000 for wrongful death allegedly stemming from a tractor-trailer accident was filed Friday in common pleas court by Linda Sue Stephens, administratrix of estate of Conrad Nelson Stephens, of Wellsburg, W. Va.

John De Sarro, 1201 Commerce St., and Joseph Dearro, 1137 E. Main st., Wellsville, were named defendants in the suit.

Mrs. Stephens claims her deceased husband was riding in a cab of a tractor, owned by defendants, over the Ohio Turnpike in Lorain County on Aug. 18, 1960, when their driver, Allen Casto, ran off left side of highway onto medial strip and struck a concrete culvert resulting in death of plaintiff's husband.

You Can't Win 'Em All

Russia's two spacemen are back on earth after 64 and 48 orbits of the earth.

It is temporarily not reasonable to admit that the Russians are doing space exploring better than Americans are able to do it.

This isn't the first time Russians have had an advantage. Russian tanks in the Korean War were better than U.S. tanks. In the early part of the Korean War, Russian planes were superior in performance.

It is acknowledged that Russian dance troupes sent here have been superior to anything hitherto seen. There seems to be no quarrel about the superiority of Russian caviar.

Bear in mind when thinking of these things that creation of pride is one of the chief aims of the Communist dictatorship.

Whether it had been done by a Communist dictatorship or any other form of government, the Russians had a great need to believe in their collective ability. They were dispirited and resigned to disappointment.

AS RECENTLY as their involvement in World War II, no one believed they were capable of making a first-rate effort. It was assumed they would collapse, as they had collapsed in World War I. They almost did, moreover.

Hence the often absurd claims made after the war that Russians had been first to do things they never had tried to do. It was part of a project to make them believe in themselves while trying to make up a century of lost time in keeping abreast of the industrial era.

It was similar to the later project of President Charles de Gaulle in France to restore the confidence of Frenchmen—but with this vital difference.

Frenchmen had pride in their past. They had confidence to restore, whereas the confidence of the Russians had to be built from the ground up.

AMERICANS with a sense of history know what a close parallel can be drawn with this country's early days, when it was learning to believe in itself. It took more than victory in the Revolutionary War to create confidence. It took the accomplishments of generations of people who had something to prove about their country.

"You can't win 'em all," we philosophize when the game goes against us—even though we had to admit defeat.

It goes against our grain to lose to the Russians, but this is just one of a very few times in a great many centuries they have been able to pull ahead.

For their sake, they deserve congratulations. As much as Americans cherish the many things they have that cannot be duplicated in Russia, they would like to be first in this too.

Behind All the Legal Maneuvers

A ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has halted a railroad economy program that would have terminated thousands of jobs. The ruling had been expected.

The railroads had expected it, and the rail unions had expected it. Both are maneuvering within the government and the courts to get into the best possible position for the showdown they know is coming.

In the showdown it will be determined whether the railroads are still managing their own affairs, or whether the steady encroachment of government into the railroad business has gone so far that government henceforth will make all key decisions.

IN NO OTHER segment of enterprise has government been allowed to exercise the control it exercises over railroads by virtue of the Interstate Commerce Commission and vast federal loans. In the finances of some railroads, government ownership long since quit being a remote possibility and became an established fact.

The question now is whether the recommendation of a presidential fact-finding commission for cutting operating costs by eliminating at least 40,000 jobs at the outset and thousands more within five years can be put into effect by railroad management.

Rail unions have no choice; they must act in the defense of their members. Rail management has no choice; it must act in defense of solvency.

IN THE irreconcilable conflict shaping up, advocates of public ownership will make their pitch.

The question taking form is whether U.S. railroads can continue to operate under private enterprise, or whether their financial problems, including inability to cut their overhead as the auto industry, coal industry, steel industry and all others cut theirs, will force them into public ownership and political control.

This is the issue behind all the legal maneuvering to get rail management and rail labor into the strongest possible positions for the showdown.

Will U.S. railroads be forced into Socialism to share their troubles with taxpayers instead of looking to more customers for the money they need.

No, Crime, Does Not Pay

It didn't need to be proved again that a gang of smart crooks can crack any plan for safeguarding money. The point had been proved so often it was already beginning to get tender.

The holdup of a U.S. mail truck en route from Cape Cod to Boston, with a loss of $1.5 million, proves it again.

This is a new record for loot. It can be assumed the indefatigable postal inspectors, reputed to be the best in the business, will find their culprits and bring them to justice, but there will be a very large sum of money spent in the process. And when the members of the gang that pulled off the holdup finally are found and put in a safe place it is unlikely they will have saved the money.

We must have faith in the postal inspectors, because our faith in the Post Office Department is shaken by the easy success of this holdup, following by only a few weeks a decision to transfer money over the Cape Cod to Boston run by postal truck instead of armored car.

It was at that point, apparently, that a gang of smart crooks decided the time was ripe to make their move—to prove once more that crime can be made to pay. Tomorrow that crime can be made to pay has been proved so often it needed no more proving.

Chief Postal Inspector Henry B. Montague is on the job and promises no effort will be spared to prove that crime does not—repeat does not—pay.

Good luck, inspector. We must have faith.

Singing their own praises is the only way some people ever hear them.

Good hard work helps you to make the best of what you have in mind.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

Funny how every year hopes rise about knocking off the New York Yankees, only to collapse in Dog Days. Almost as funny as the way hopes rise every year about federal tax reform, only to collapse before the next Congress adjourns.

It has dawned on me that it's crazy for me to have no fear of airplanes despite my vertigo when I get on a stepladder. I never have passed up a chance to fly because it never has occurred to me to have misgivings.

After many years of watching political campaigning I am certain the British have a better way to do it. They concentrate all their efforts in a few weeks before they vote, instead of dragging it out all summer and fall.

One of my favorite recollections is a climb to the summit of Mt. Washington from the last station on the cog railroad. My companions and I thought nothing of it but I have learned since that listeners are impressed by our hardihood.

I wonder if it's as puzzling to other people as it is to me why our Great God Government should worry about making jobs for people being left high and dry by an industrial credo that seems about to make jobholding go out of style in favor of automation.

Something I learned about the French "medicare" plan while in Paris is that Frenchmen can go to the government oriented doctor or a private practitioner but go to the former because the latter's higher fee rarely is paid in full by the state, which leaves the patient stuck with the balance.

U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers now has sued his wife for divorce, revealing they have been separated since late in May. Things never were the same after the sensational incident in 1960 when the United States was forced to admit it had been flying U2 planes over the Soviet Union for years—not with these two, not with anyone.

The tastiest outdoor cooking I've laid a lip on was my allotment of half a bushel of boiled spare ribs dipped in a kind of sweet sauce and broiled to a crisp brown over charcoal. My allotment? Three double handfuls.

Of all harassments made possible by modern living—and they're legion—none is worse than a telephone call that reveals nothing when the receiver is lifted. Whether done in joke or malice, it's unnerving.

There's no accounting for tastes and no point arguing about them. Two members of our family recently returned from Venice say it's the loveliest place imaginable. Two friends recently returned from Venice think it's the last stop before nothing. My brother thinks England is a flop. Me, I am mooning over my picture postcards.

Some of us were talking about tobacco and I said I thought chewing tobacco still was the most satisfying and least harmful form of the weed. There was a painful silence before the conversation got going again. Obviously I had said something that revealed an unworthy facet of my individuality, patooty.

I do not find it painful to acknowledge that other nations can get the jump on us, not after borrowing the English language, Roman law, French cooking, African violets, India ink, the Japanese sandman, Brazil nuts, the Italian hairdo, Spanish rice, Danish pastry, German bands and the Chinese fire drill. Maybe the Russians are going to be world-beaters in rocketing and orbiting, the same way they're ahead in Russian dressing.

"There's a Gentleman Out Here Who Stutters!"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

NEW DELHI Not far from the gargantuan Red fort of ancient Mogul kings, flies the Red flag of the sprawling Communist party of India.

The Hammer and Sickle banner flutters in the tepid air over a building from which flows more "gold" than the old rulers ever spent in their most ruby-filled years.

It is estimated that the Communist party is spending some 25 million rupees a month—that comes almost to $5 million a month, or $60 million a year.

That's high. But so is the source for these figures. He is sought out by most world experts visiting India for he is considered Asia's most informed authority on the Indian Communist movement.

He is a "Roy-ist." They are a small group of intellectuals who have fought the Sino-Soviet Communists since the early '20s.

For the Communist International this money is well invested. If India, with its 3,000 mile border on Communist land, is ever taken internally, all Asia caves in, too.

From what coffers comes this money? On what is it spent? The rupees pay the bills for nine daily newspapers. The money supports another two dozen or so publications.

There are hundreds of headquarters—not so much in Delhi—as in the big industrial cities such as Calcutta and Bombay.

COMMUNIST efforts are confrontant. There are witnesses, says my source, who have actually seen money pass from Communist organizers to waterfront operators.

The All India Trade Union Congress (AITUC)—one of four labor federations in India—is Communist controlled. It has three to four thousand full-time paid organizers.

Even here in nonindustrial Delhi the Communist labor outfit has 120 organizers. Thus they have over the years been able to penetrate unions of government office workers; banks; railroads; ordinance, munition and defense production factories; post, telegraph and other communications services and steel mills.

Certainly all this takes gold. Some of it comes from kickbacks of hundreds of extra employees hired by the many Sino-Soviet embassies, trade and other special Communist missions here. The Chinese and other Asiatic as well as European Communist governments pay their Indian employees who then turn part of their salaries over to special part contacts—or "collectors."

A tricky finance maneuver operates out of the big (and mighty efficient) Bhilai steel mill in Madhya Pradesh. At its peak construction days it had 900 Soviet experts working there. Now the figure is some 700.

THESE RUSSIANS are paid in rubles which are put into their accounts back home in Moscow and other USSR cities. The Soviet government pays them. In turn the Soviet embassy bills the Indian government steel trust for these wages.

The Indians pay in rupees—millions of them over a long period. The Soviet embassy then disburses the rupees—not to the Russian technicians whom they've already paid—but to the Communist party of India.

There is also a mass shake-down of Indian industrialists, merchants and plantation owners. Anyone seeking to sell to the Sino-Soviet bloc must pay upwards of 10 per cent commission into special Indian Communist coffers. The embassy has a list of "drop"—addresses to which this money must be sent.

There was an international trade fair late last year which also provided the party with funds through this Communist technique of industrial shake-downs. Much of the Soviet and other Communist exhibits were sold. They netted hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Some of those who bought the machinery had to part with a "sales tax" to party people. In addition the Communist exhibitors gave the proceeds of these sales to the party.

MY SOURCE reported there is a big Calcutta stevedoring company owned by an operator with the highest Communist party contacts. This waterfront company gets considerable Communist shipping business. It gives half of its profits to the Communist party.

Another industrialist with party contacts runs a big tobacco plantation and processing outfit and has recently gone in for production of desperately-needed fertilizer production. He supports the party's publications in his area.

There are scores of such cases. The Soviets constantly canvass businessmen here in search of those willing to cut the party in on business deals.

Sometimes the manufacturers are forced to pay heavily by Communist union officials on threat of costly, swift stoppages.

WELL-INFORMED newsmen with whom I conferred here say that the Communist shake-down of manufacturers is common and that the money goes into the party.

Compare this with the anti-Communists. While the Soviet party is the richest political organization in the East, there are anti-Communist activists and organizers who live on a few rupees a day. A rupee is worth 25 cents. On this they must eat and work. Why don't we help our friends?

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My dear sister died two months ago in childbirth. It was her first child and her husband is filled with grief. He turned the baby over to me to raise and I intend to bring her up as if she were my own.

I am 35 years of age and have never married. The baby's father is a fine man and I know he is terribly lonely. We have had some long talks and without coming right out and asking, I'm pretty sure he would like to marry me. I would accept his proposal in a minute, but I'm afraid of what people might say.

Under the circumstances I'm sure my sister would approve. It would be wonderful for the baby, too, to grow up with her own father.

Please give me your thinking on this very important matter. I am going to take your advice. —LOUISVILLE WOMAN.

Dear Woman: A four-or-five-month courtship period will tell you what you want to know. Never mind what anyone else says or thinks. If you two get along well together and wish to marry, go ahead.

Out of Chains

Dear Ann: I'm 18, graduated from high school last June and went steady with Steve for three straight years. I know what you think of going steady and you are right but I was too dumb to see it. Steve was the most attractive boy in school and I was plain-looking. I was scared to relax my grip for fear some girl would get him away.

After graduation he began to cool off. He seemed to go out of his way to start an argument. Finally he blew up and said, "Find someone else to haul you around. I feel like you've got me in chains!" That was the way our three-year romance ended.

Now I'm marooned. My telephone never rings, except for a few girl friends who want to know if I've killed myself yet. How can I get back into circulation? Where do I start? Please help me before I dry up and blow away.—FADING FAST.

Dear Fading: A girl who has worn an "Occupied" sign around her neck for three years can hardly expect the fellows to beat her door down the minute she is available.

Be patient. The word will get around. And while you're waiting, it may be a good idea to have a little party and invite yourself a date.

Longs for Father

Dear Ann: My mother and father were divorced seven years ago. I'm 14 years old now and I remember father well although I've seen him only once in all that time, and that was six years ago. He was a very good-looking man. My mother says that was the main part of the problem.

Lately my dad has been on my mind a lot. I dream of him often. In my dreams he is always sweet to me, and not disagreeable, which is the way my mother says he was. I want to write him a letter and tell him I'd like to see

More Innuendo

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Humphrey Isn't Getting Fair Shake In Probe

It's just too bad that George Humphrey, former secretary of the treasury, isn't or hasn't been a Communist sympathizer. If he had been, the so-called "liberals" would today be crying out that public integrity through the devices of innuendo and "guilt by association" was being employed by a David Lawrence congressional committee to defame the personal integrity and public record of a witness. There probably would even be demands that the investigating committee be "abolished."

But Mr. Humphrey, who is not a "fifth - amendment taker," has just appeared before a Senate investigating committee at his own request and has given comprehensive data about the M. A. Hanna Co., which he headed before he entered the Eisenhower cabinet and with which the United States government, during the Truman administration, negotiated a contract. He declares that the government benefited and today stands to make money out of the whole transaction.

Will the lengthy statement made to the committee by Mr. Humphrey ever get enough distribution to offset the innuendoes that were given to the press of the country prior to the hearing?

THE CURRENT congressional inquiry on stockpiling of strategic materials was undertaken with the public encouragement of the President. Perhaps it was an effort to overcome the unfavorable publicity arising in connection with the Billie Sol Ester case—in which, incidentally, there's been a good deal of unjustified innuendo, too, about the integrity of various officials of the Kennedy administration whose names have been banded about loosely in the press. This correspondent called attention to the unfairness of it several weeks ago in these dispatches.

But what are the facts in the case of George Humphrey? Early in 1953 he told a congressional committee, which had before it the question of confirming him as secretary of the treasury, that he had been connected with the M. A. Hanna Co. of Cleveland, which had made a contract with the government. He was not asked by a single member of the committee to sell his holdings, for there would be no way he could dispose of his assets and still be completely detached from possible government action.

As he pointed out, at the 1953 hearing, even the cash that he might derive from the sale of his stock in the nickel company would have had to be deposited in the banks and would draw interest, and it could theoretically be argued that the Treasury Department has much to do with the fixing of interest rates.

SO MR. HUMPHREY instructed his associates and his subordinates in the Treasury never to take up with him any matter that related to the Hanna company's contract with the government to make nickel for airplanes and for other national defense purposes.

The government needed the nickel and the Hanna company had the facilities to make it—otherwise, it would have had to be obtained in Cuba or Canada.

Mr. Humphrey declares that he was himself very much opposed to his company taking on the contract, because of the risks involved, and said so at the time.

Mr. Humphrey, in his testimony, moreover declared that "of all the transactions the government made for this purpose, the Hanna contracts involved the most efficient use of the least government money, either per pound of nickel bought or per pound of capacity created, and it is surely one of the comparatively few cases where every cent of its expenditures have already been fully repaid to the government with interest."

Mr. Humphrey, in his statement to the committee, said that the Hanna company had realized a net profit of $7.5 million over the seven year period involved and that the government not only will have acquired its Hanna - produced nickel at a price below the market price today, but it has also received from the same operation income taxes of $5.8 million, withholding taxes of $2 million from the employees of the nickel company and approximately $7 million for power from the Bonneville Dam.

On transactions totaling $92.5 million as of April 1, 1961, Mr. Humphrey testified under oath that Hanna's profit of $7.5 million amounts to less than 8 per cent over the entire seven-year period.

BUT THE FACTS probably will never catch up with the innuendo. Inferences of improper conduct will persist, and that's why the so-called "liberals" have always made a good point when they argued against government by innuendo or "guilt by association," especially in congressional investigations.

Unfortunately, however, the political urge is often stronger than the sense of justice. Maybe that's why so many of the "liberals" who are Democrats are strangely silent today while reputations are damaged and implications of improper conduct are leveled against men of integrity who happen to be of the opposite political party.

Cites Traffic Hazard

I have been reading with great interest the articles written the last several days in the Salem News regarding the "tree hazards."

I would like to bring to the attention of the safety committee and Mayor Crammer another situation I consider extremely hazardous. I am referring to the alley between the McAllister store and the American Legion building. Due to the shrubbery planted along the east side of the alley, as you approach Pershing St. it is impossible to see oncoming traffic and pedestrians until you drive well out into the street. I wonder how many other citizens, like myself, have had close calls there?

I consider this shrubbery more hazardous than the tree standing on the corner of E. State and Hawley Ave.

Mrs. Henry Orrin Smith Jr.

Phillips-Smith Nuptials Church Event At Sharon

St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed Church at Sharon, Pa., was the locale for the wedding Aug. 4 at 2:30 p.m. of Miss Marjorie Mae Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Leslie J. Phillips of Prospect St., Sharon, and the late Leslie Phillips, and Henry Orrin Smith Jr. of Salem, son of Henry Orrin Smith Sr. of Lincoln, Neb., and the late Mrs. Smith, and the foster son of Frank Vincent of 353 E. 4th St.

Rev. William Earl Wynn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Harry Jones was soloist and Mrs. Jack Tamplin presided at the organ console.

Given in marriage by her brother James Phillips, the bride wore an Alfred Angelo original gown of white silk organza with basque bodice featuring a sculptured Chantilly lace neckline and brief cap sleeves. The bouffant bell shaped skirt was edged with three deep tiers of clipped Chantilly lace, and was draped to silk organza roses at intervals with roses adding to the detail of the flowing chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was draped to a cluster of organza roses and her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white roses centered with a white orchid. She wore white wrist length gloves and carried a white lace handkerchief, gift of her mother.

Miss Joan Miller was maid of honor in a gown of mint green. Mrs. James Phillips was bridesmaid, and junior bridesmaid was Linda Sue Phillips. Both bridesmaids were gowned in orchid colored dresses.

Pattie Lee Phillips was flower girl and James E. Phillips Jr. carried the rings.

Best man for Mr. Smith was Donald Huston of Salem, and ushering were Donald Smith of Sharon, Ernest Rae of Salem, and Thomas E. Phillips, brother of the bride.

The reception for 400 guests was held at the Hickory VFW hall.

The bride is a graduate of Sharon High School and is employed in office at Sharon General Hospital. Mr. Smith is graduate of Salem High School and DeVry Technical Institute of Chicago, and is employed as a computer service engineer by Commercial Shearing and Stamping Co. at Youngstown.

Following a honeymoon trip to Florida, the couple will be at home at 289 Prospect St., Sharon.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: Being a man alone, I get many helpful hints from your department.

Sometime ago, you wrote about mosquitos breeding in ivy plants around the house. In my own case, I have no water plants, but do get mosquitos at intervals.

I found that my mosquitos breed in my recirculation cooler. When they do appear, I drain the cooler and this eliminates the mosquitos until I forget to drain it again.

A fresh water tank could be an ideal place for the breeding of these pests. The draining of the cooler from time to time will eliminate the breeding.

Another use for the paraffin cartons in which milk comes in is to cut them up and save them for starting charcoal fires

DEAR HELOISE: To take mildew out of leather, rub pure vaseline into it until the vaseline is quite absorbed. Polish carefully with a chamois.

I clean hearth tiles and slate with a cream made of soft soap and skimmed milk. This really looks good on dark green slate.

As I told this to my husband he got up from his chair and made some of the mixture. He polished our slate entry that goes over in front of the fireplace. This was at 10 p.m. Anyway, the slate looks just as though it had been waxed!

ROSE

DEAR HELOISE: I have found that sometimes the gravy from my roast is not as brown as I would like it to be, so I add a teaspoon of instant coffee!

This gives it color and flavor too. I also put a teaspoon of coffee on top of my roast during the last hour of cooking.

MRS. G. W. HARLAN

DEAR HELOISE: Please tell your readers not to use a dust-cloth when dusting gilt-edged books. Rubbing with a cloth removes the gilt from the edge of the leaves.

I have found that in dusting leather books, especially Bibles . . . a cloth seems to rub the dust in. My solution in our library is to use a feather duster.

LIBRARIAN

DEAR HELOISE: Being a seamstress, I thought I would like to pass on this little hint to others who do their own sewing.

I removed the top drawer of my sewing machine. Turning it over, I drove nails into the bottom of the drawer, pointed side up. I find this most useful for holding all of my spools of thread.

If people have the new type of machine where the drawer is not removable, they could cut a little piece of plywood to fit the bottom of the drawer and drive the nails through the plywood. Insert the whole kaboodle into the drawer itself. It is most satisfactory.

Mrs. Andrew Cartwright of Columbiana, president of the Council, had charge of the business meeting.

A memorial service by chaplain Mrs. Blair Lewis of Gamma Zeta, Lisbon, was given for Mrs. Alice Clewell of Beta Theta, Winona, and Mrs. Toni Guy of Gamma Eta, Columbiana.

Ten-year awards were presented to Mrs. Cartwright and Mrs. Mrs. Rella Gorchess, Miss Phyllis Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Mohr and Mrs. Sally Hurd of Gamma Zeta, Lisbon.

Four members from Massillon who were recognized for 10-year membership are Mrs. Berlin Maple, Mrs. Joseph Meinhardt, Mrs. Donald Shott and Miss Margaret Ann Spindler.

New officers for the coming year are: Mrs. Mary Rogers of Gamm Phi, Hanoverton, president; Mrs. Mollie Schroyer of Delta Eta, Guilford, vice president; Mrs. Donna Rose of Alpha Zeta, Salineville, recording secretary; Mrs. Alice Hartmann of Gamma Phi, Hanoverton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Nina Jean Peterson of Alpha Zeta, Salineville, treasurer.

Installation of the new officers was conducted by Mrs. Cartwright and Mrs. Sarah Tipton, retiring corresponding secretary of the council, both of Columbiana.

Miss Judy Spooner of Salem, dance instructor with the Bettie Lee Studio, presented two dance numbers as part of the program.

The tables were centered with white rose trees.

Miss Nancy Shattuck and Mrs. Robert Burris had charge of the registration. Those on the decorating committee were Miss Phyllis Hadley, Mrs. Robert Fife, Mrs. Willis Coleman, Miss Jacqueline Truzzi, Miss Phyllis Hamilton, all of Gamma Zeta, Lisbon.

Twelve clubs make up the Council, with three of these being in Lisbon, Gamma Zeta, Gamma Nu, and Delta Omicron. The other clubs are from Columbiana, Winona, Salem, Salineville, East Palestine, Massillon, Guilford Lake, Hanoverton and New Waterford.

Red Cross Chapter Meeting Is Called

Dodgers Blast Reds 6-2, Increase Lead to 3 1/2-Games

Braves Victors Over Giants 6-4

Bucs Dump Phils; Houston Clips Cubs

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
That National League numbers game goes something like this: The Dodgers got 2 for 1, Tommy Davis got 3 for 4, and Maury Wills got 2 for 2.

The result is that the Los Angeles Dodgers have increased their lead to 3 1/2 games over struggling San Francisco while onrushing Cincinnati slipped back a notch to 6 1/2 games.

Tommy Davis and Wills were among the key figures Friday night as the Dodgers cooled off the hot Reds 6-2. Milwaukee beat the Giants 6-4, thereby making the Dodger victory doubly important.

Houston edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2, and Pittsburgh snapped Philadelphia's six-game winning string 9-1 in the only other National League game. The St. Louis-New York Mets game was rained out.

Davis went 3 for 4 with a double and two singles, drove in two runs and scored another to lead the Dodgers' 10-hit attack against the Reds. Wills stole two bases in as many trips, increasing his total to 64—the most in the National League in 50 years.

Los Angeles had a 3-0 lead, and Dodger rookie Pete Richert a three-hit shutout going into the Cincinnati half of the sixth. But the Reds pounced on him for both their runs, and Larry Sherry came on to finish up.

Fairly Raps Homer

Ron Fairly put it out of reach with a three-run homer for the Dodgers in the eighth.

Rookie right-hander Claude Raymond quelled a Giant uprising in the eighth and preserved Milwaukee's victory for Bob Shaw (15-8). The Giants had one in and two on—representing the tying run—when Raymond came on in the eighth, struck out Orlando Cepeda and Willie McCovey to end the threat and then retired the Giants in order in the ninth. Cepeda hit his 24th homer of the season and Willie Mays his 38th earlier in the game.

A two-run homer by the Braves' Lee Maye in the seventh accounted for the difference.

Bucs Tally Six in 3rd

Pittsburgh jumped on the Phillies' Jack Hamilton for six runs in the third inning, then coasted in behind Harvey Haddix. Haddix, (8-5) had a shutout going until Don Demeter hit a homer for the Phils' only run in the ninth. Four singles, three bases on balls and a wild pitch accounted for the Pirates' big third.

Houston had to rally for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to beat the Cubs. Chicago's veteran knuckleball specialist Barney Schultz wild-pitched the tying run home, and Hal Smith's pinch-hit single with the bases loaded won homer gave the Colts their first run.

Bob Franklin, a defensive half-back from Mississippi, is the lightest player on the 1962 Cleveland Browns roster at 182 pounds.

Coach Morton Pleased With Turnout 69 Football Hopefuls Report For First Practice Session

Sixty-nine prospective Salem High School gridders — including a bumper crop of 33 sophomores — reported Friday at Reilly Stadium for the season's opening practice session.

The candidates are getting a taste of the old football camp, which was used extensively some years ago and is still used in some schools, as they report to the stadium at 9 in the morning and remain until 4:30 in the evening.

Head Coach Blaine Morton and his aides have on-the-field sessions from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4:30 p.m. with chalk talks and instruction periods sandwiched in between. The gridders bring sack lunches with milk being provided by the school.

Coach Morton is well pleased with the turnout and says that things went as expected the first day with no injuries more serious than the expected bumps and bruises.

The Quakers will continue their present schedule until Sept. 1, when they scrimmage Youngstown Rayen in the morning and are treated to a picnic in the afternoon by the Salem Boosters Club.

Former Purdue Star Leads St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A former Purdue University star led the way today into the third round of the $30,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament.

Joe Campbell of Pendleton, Ind., added a 67 Friday to his first day round of 66, and took a one stroke lead over Dave Ragan, Johnny Pott and Pete Cooper.

It took a five-over-par 149 or better to make the cutoff point for the 70 low and ties who played in today's third round.

BERMUDA GOLF SET

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) — The Mid Ocean Club's annual invitation golf tournament has been set for Nov. 26-30. The field will be limited to 96 players. Harry Ayres of Manila won the junior division last year while Veggo Larsen of New Haven, Conn., triumphed in the senior division.

'Big Inning' Key To Tribe's Downfall

BALTIMORE (AP) — The big inning.

That's the key to the recent plight of the Cleveland Indians, who suffered their third straight loss Friday night, this time to Baltimore, 5-2.

For the second straight day, Tribe pitchers yielded enough runs in the first inning to lose. Dick Donovan, seeking his 16th victory, was the victim as the Orioles pushed across four runs in the first on five hits.

Thursday, the White Sox pounded Cleveland for seven runs in the opening frame. It was reversed Wednesday, the Sox picking up 10 runs in the ninth inning before an out was made.

The Orioles, who had lost nine of their last 10, broke a six-game losing streak.

John Romano's 20th homer and Woodie Held's 13th, hit back-to-back in the sixth, spoiled Milt Pappas' shutout bid. Incidentally, the Indians' last seven home runs have been with the bases empty.

Willie Kirkland almost had a homer in the sixth, too, but Jackie Brandt made a brilliant catch at the right field fence.

Pappas, who pitched a five-hitter, was in trouble in the fourth. A single by Al Luplow and two walks filled the bases with two out. But Don Dillard, batting for Donovan, looked at a third strike.

Mudcat Grant and Gary Bell worked the final five innings, Bell giving up a solo homer to Charley Lau, who batted in three runs.

Major League Stars

By The Associated Press
BATTING — Tomm Davis, Dodgers, stroked three singles, driving in two runs, including decisive tally in two-run sixth inning rally that propelled National League leaders to 6-2 victory over third-place Cincinnati.

PITCHING — Jim Bunning, Tigers, shut out Chicago White Sox on three hits—all singles.

Hot Stove Leagues

Eljer Co., trailing by two runs, going into the last inning, shoved across three markers to down Electric Furnace 5-4 Friday night to stay in the running for the Class F playoff title.

The two clubs will battle again at 2 p.m. Sunday at Memorial South in the championship game. Each team now has one defeat in the double-elimination playoff.

During the regular season, the best Eljer could do was tie Farmers Bank for fourth place. Electric Furnace had been the play-off favorite by virtue of its 10-4 season's record which placed it in second place behind the Elks who did not take part in the playoff.

SPARKING ELJER'S come from behind victory were Dave Fleischer and Joe Rottenborn who smacked a triple and single, respectively, during the winning rally. Some loose infield play on the part of Electric Furnace also helped the Eljer nine score the three runs in the seventh.

Each team collected only four hits. Reed Votaw with a pair of singles accounted for half of his team's hits off losing hurler Bob Rozeski.

THE WINNING pitcher was Chuck Montgomery who hurled nine innings after relieving starter

Cowboys-Lions, Browns-Steelers Clash In Cleveland

70,000 Expected At First Pro Football Doubleheader

CLEVELAND (AP) — One of this city's biggest football crowds will be at Municipal Stadium tonight for professional football's first doubleheader.

Attracted by the unprecedented appearance of four big league teams on the same field, the fans have bought nearly 60,000 tickets in advance, indicating attendance will be well over 70,000.

The Dallas Cowboys meet the Detroit Lions in the 6:30 p.m. (EDT) opener, then the Cleveland Browns play the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Among the crowd will be Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League. Club owners throughout the country will be watching the experiment with interest.

The doubleheader idea was conceived by Art Modell, owner of the Browns, who said it would be a chance for the fans to see clubs "in the other NFL division that the Browns may not meet in the regular season."

Largest previous exhibition game attendance here was 51,076 for the Chicago Bears' first invasion in 1950. Cleveland's initial season in the NFL. Record crowd for a pro football game here was 82,872 when the Browns played the New York Giants on Nov. 6, 1960.

This will be the first 1962 Cleveland showing of the Browns, who beat the Lions 17-14 at Detroit last Saturday night in their opening preseason contest.

Considerable off-season trading has given the club a new look.

Miss Delightful Wins At Scioto Downs Park

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Miss Delightful, driven by Rual Cormier, won the featured $2,000, Class 17 race in the Mid-America Racing Association's Parade of Stars series Friday night at Scioto Downs. Her time for the mile was 2:05 1-5.

The 5-year-old daughter of Adios is owned by McKinley Kirk of Washington Court House and the Valley Brothers of Waverly. She took the lead at the half, then paced the last half-mile in 59 seconds to win by 2 1/4 lengths and return $4.20.

Roy (Frida) Macklem has been equipment manager of the Detroit Lions for the past 26 years.

Jim Ninowski, who came to Cleveland in the trade that sent Milt Plum to the Lions, will start at quarterback. Frank Ryan, obtained from the Los Angeles Rams, is due for his baptism at the signal-calling post for the Browns.

Pittsburgh also has done some face-lifting. Rookie Bob Ferguson, All-America from Ohio State, was at fullback when the Steelers drilled here Friday. He showed he could run against the pros in his debut a week ago when Pittsburgh beat the Bears in Atlanta.

The fans also will be following the Lions with particular interest because of ex-Browns Plum, Dave Lloyd and Tom Watkins. Dallas has former Browns in Frank Clarke and Billy Howton, starting as flankers, and Sam Baker, punter-placekicker.

Lincoln, Odoms Win Softball Playoff Tilts

Class AA Lincoln Machine nipped Tullis American 2-1 and Class A Odom's Sohio edged Lisbon Hotel 4-3 Friday night at Kelley Field to take 1-0 leads in their best-of-three playoff series for the city softball league crowns.

Butch Crawford and Bill DeFavero combined talents to shove across the tie-breaking run in the top of the seventh inning which gave Lincoln Machine its 2-1 victory over Tullis.

With the score knotted at 1-1, Crawford led off the seventh with a double and eventually raced home on DeFavero's sacrifice fly to center field.

CASEY LEASE had given Lincoln a 1-0 lead in the second frame with his leadoff homer. Tullis American pulled even in the bottom of the third on a double by pitcher Ken Brudery and an infield error.

Despite some clutch hitting, the game was highlighted by tight pitching. Hank Miller went all the way for Lincoln, giving up only three hits while fanning four and walking only one.

Brudery recorded the strike-outs in the six innings he worked. Bill Ehrhart hurled one inning for the losers.

PITCHER AND SLUGGER Bill

Panzott was the big attraction for Odom's Sohio who exploded for four runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 3-0 deficit and defeat arch-rival Lisbon Hotel 4-3.

Besides pitching a one - hitter, Panzott cleared the sacks in the sixth-inning uprising with a home run.

Ray Thompson of Lisbon Hotel was sailing along with a shutout when the roof caved in in the sixth. Jerry Jeffries led off with a single, Jim Smith reached base on a fielder's choice and George Alek drew a walk.

Ater Tom Ehrhart popped out, Panzott cleared the sacks with his homer.

Lisbon's only hit was a sixth-inning double by Lou Talbott who eventually scored. The losers had collected two runs without the aid of a hit in the fifth. A walk, two fielder's choices, a wild pitch and sacrifice did the damage.

THE SAME FOUR teams will return to action tonight at Kelley Field. At 6:30 Tullis and Lincoln will clash, and in the 7:30 windup Odom's and Lisbon Hotel will go at each other again.

Another win for Odom's would give that club the Class A playoff title to add to its regular season championship. Odom's and Lisbon Hotel finished the regular season with 15-5 records, but the Sohio crew ripped the Lisbonites in a one-game playoff for the title.

The winner of the Lincoln Machine-Tullis American series will move into the Class AA playoff finals against the winner of a best-of-three series between regular season champ Stepanic's Tavern and third place Old Dutch. Stepanic's leads that series 1-0.

Lincoln Machine finished second during the regular season and Tullis wound up fourth.

Angels Post 4-3, 3-2 Victories; Yanks Lose

Batting Order Mixup Helps LA Sweep Over Senators

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Angels have found a new way to win a ball game: Get the right man in the wrong spot in the batting order.

That's what happened Friday night as the second-place Angels swept a doubleheader from the Washington Senators, 4-3 in 10 innings and 3-2, moving up on the front-running New York Yankees and keeping their American League pennant chances very much alive.

Shortened Duck Season Slated To Start Oct. 17

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Wildlife Division has set the 1962 duck season for 25 days, beginning at noon Oct. 17 and ending at sunset Nov. 10.

The season is five days shorter than last year. Hunting hours will be sunrise to sunset, except for the opening day.

The daily bag limit is two and after the first day possession limit is four. The daily limit may contain two wood ducks, but only one black duck, mallard or hooded merganser. The possession limit may contain two wood ducks, two black ducks or mallard and one hooded merganser.

Canvasbacks and redheads are completely protected again.

A bonus limit of two scaups (bluebills) or four in possession is legal this year in addition to the regular limit.

The American and redbreasted mergansers daily limit is set at five and possession limit at 10. Daily and possession limit for coots is six.

The 60-day goose season opens Oct. 17 and ends at sunset Dec. 15. Limits are the same as last year, five a day and five in possession. Two Canadians or two whitefronts or one of each may be included in the five.

Here's how the Angels won the opener:

In the ninth inning, they substituted outfielder Leon Wagner and pitcher Tom Morgan at the same time. The Angels wanted Wagner to hit seventh in the order to give him an at-bat in the last of the ninth, with Morgan hitting in the ninth spot, and so told the umpires.

Plate Umpire Cal Drummond ruled the Angels' batting order out of order.

Wagner didn't hit in the ninth. He did in the 10th—and drilled his first homer since July 9, a 400-foot shot that gave the Angels the ball game. A home run by Lee Thomas got the job done in the nightcap.

The twin triumphs pulled the Angels within four games of the Yankees, who were beaten at Kansas City by the six-hit pitching of Bill Fischer. Third-place Minnesota moved within six games of the top, beating Boston 7-3 in the opener of a twinbill before the Red Sox won 9-4.

Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit's Jim Bunning shut out the Chicago White Sox 2-0 on three singles, and Baltimore got a five-hit pitching job from Milt Pappas to whip Cleveland 5-2.

Thomas' eighth inning homer gave the Angels a 3-3 tie in the opener before the controversy over Wagner's entry into the game caused a loud and long argument. His 29th homer quieted things. It also gave the victory to reliever Tom Morgan (3-2) and the defeat to Jim Hannan (2-3).

In the nightcap, Thomas homered for the deciding run in the third inning off Ed Hobaugh (1-1). Don Lee (10-9) received credit for the Angels' 70th victory of the season — matching their entire 1961 total.

Fischer (4-4), a 32-year-old re-tread who specializes in slow stuff, was tagged for a Mickey Mantle homer and two runs in the first inning, then shut out the Yankees on four hits the rest of the way.

The Twins-Red Sox games were home run battles with the two clubs combining for 11. Zoilo Versalles, Lenny Green, Earl Battey and winning pitcher Jack Kralick (8-8) connected for the Twins in the opener to tag Ike Delock (4-2) with the loss. Lu Clinton, who hit one in the first game, homered for the Red Sox in the second as did Gary Geiger, Ed Bressoud and winner Earl Wilson (10-5). Georges Maranda (1-3) lost it, despite home run support by Versalles and Bernie Allen.

While Bunting (12-8) was checking the White Sox, Rocky Colavito provided the punch for the Tigers. Bunting and John Buzhardt (7-10) who had allowed Detroit only one hit at that point, were locked in a scoreless tie until Colavito doubled two men home with the game's lone runs.

Playing in a foursome with Dick Lawrence, Bill Hannay and Ed Bell, Scott came up with five birdies on the front nine. He carded a par 36 on the back nine and wound up with a 67 for 18 holes.

The only golfer ever to shoot under a 31 at the Salem Golf Club course was the club professional, Vince Leskosky, who has fired a 30.

Spacemen

men and photographers were there to record their arrival.

Tass said the satellite launched today was designated Cosmos 8. Previous satellites in the Soviet Comos series have been unmanned.

The Soviet news agency said Cosmos 8 carried "scientific apparatus . . . designed to continue intended space research in accordance with the program" announced March 16. Tass said when the first Cosmos went up then that the Russians would launch a series of earth satellites during 1962 to explore radiation and other hazards man will face in extended space travels.

Presumably some of this research went into preparing the space feats of the two astronauts being honored in Moscow today.

Crowds began gathering along the 15-mile parade route and in front of the Kremlin shortly after the day dawned bright and clear. Hundreds of thousands of Muscovites and large numbers of troops were on hand to salute the two astronauts standing on the pinnacle of Soviet public honor—the highest level of Lenin's big red granite tomb in Red Square.

It was bedecked with thousands of red flags and numerous models of rockets, symbols of Soviet prowess in space. Also flying were the blue flags of the Soviet air force, which is holding its annual celebration in conjunction with the festival honoring its two famous pilots.

Amid the carnival-like atmosphere, Soviet leaders were making sure the military significance of the astronauts group flight was not lost on the West.

In an order of the day, Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky declared that Russian arms "are always ready to smash an aggressor if he dares to disturb the peace labor of the people building communism."

Coupled with the warning was an earlier boast from the air force that the Soviet Union now outstrips the United States in military air power as well as in space.

This, said the air force chief of staff, Col. Gen. Pyotr Braiko, was "borne out very eloquently by the table of world aviation records, registered by the International Aeronautics Federation.

"According to data of Jan. 1, 1961, the Soviet Union holds 228 out of the 502 world records, while the United States has only 134 records. In the first half of this year alone the U.S.S.R. has bettered or set up 60 new world aviation records."

He added: "Soviet fliers now fly day and night beyond the range of visibility of the earth . . . all this gives us firm confidence that in case of an attack . . . the Soviet air force will successfully fulfil the combat tasks set before it."

The Soviet space twins have been reported in excellent health since their nearly simultaneous landings Wednesday in Kazakhstan, about 1,500 miles southeast of Moscow. At their Volga base Friday they described their experiences of weightlessness in space for Soviet newsmen. Both called it "interesting."

Both astronauts ate small snacks of regular food and also had food pastes in tubes.

"Andrian and I ate with a good appetite," Popovich added. "It was just as pleasant as in a good canteen or restaurant."

From his spaceship, Nikolayev said, "The moon looked not flat, as from the earth, but like a ball hanging in empty space." As for earth, he said, "many towns were visible especially at night, lit up by electric lights. We also saw mountains and rivers, forest, oceans and seas."

SALT HARVEST — Specially designed harvesters and conveyor equipment scoop thousands of tons of salt each day from 430-acre crystallization beds at Dry Creek, Australia. There are no natural salt deposits in the entire continent. During their spring (our fall) sea water is allowed to come into great basins, then moisture is dried out by summer sun.

Kennedy

took Kennedy on a 2,500-mile zig-zag course across the continent by jet liner and by jet powered helicopters.

There were two stops along the way, at other water projects.

Just outside Pierre, S.D., the President drove onto the world's largest dam of packed earth—the Oahe Dam across the Missouri. It is nearly a mile thick at the base, more than a mile and three quarters long, and its 250-mile reservoir is longer than Lake Erie.

The $345 million project is part of the big Missouri River Basin development and supplies water for irrigation, flood control, navigation, power and recreation.

At Pueblo, Colo., Kennedy circled the spot where a dam and reservoir will provide one of the key features of the new Frying Pan-Arkansas project.

The State Highway Patrol said she was a passenger in a car driven by Frank A. Musiolowski, 42, which was struck from behind by another auto operated by Marshall C. Fleming, 33, of Est Liverpool. Fleming was cited for unsafe operation.

2 Drivers Fined After Police Chase

An 18-year-old Salem girl, arrested by police at 4 a.m. today after a high-speed chase, was fined a total of $125 and costs and sentenced to two days in jail by Mayor Dean Cranmer for reckless operation and driving while her license was under suspension.

Cited was Connie Bowman of 430 Highland Ave. The jail sentence and $50 of the fine were suspended on condition of her good behavior for one year.

Police say they clocked her at 80 miles per hour on N. Union Ave. between 3rd St. and 11th St. They said she disregarded stop signs at 10th and 11th Sts. and finally went north on N. Lincoln Ave. (Rt. 62) where the cruiser overtook her.

The defendant's driver's license had been suspended in May by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin for reckless operation and speeding.

She pleaded guilty to both charges filed against her today. The fine for reckless operation was $25; the other $100 and costs and the suspended jail sentence came on the driving-under-suspension charge.

Also fined $25 and costs for reckless operation this morning was Leroy A. Beadnell, 27, of RD 2, Salem. He was arrested by police at 2:40 a.m. at the intersection of S. Ellsworth Ave. and Pershing St.

Earlier in the morning he had eluded police, who said he was traveling at a high rate of speed while driving his car south on Newgarden Ave.

Humphrey

stitutes a "stab in the back."

Humphrey, now honorary chairman of Hanna, has told the senators his company realized a reasonable profit of $7.5 million on a contract to supply nickel to the government's stockpile of strategic metals. The contract was signed four days before the industrialist was sworn in as a member of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's cabinet.

Symington contends the Hanna company's own income tax returns show a $15-million profit and that government auditors estimate "profits and windfalls" total at least $34 million on a total production cost of $11,199,000.
